Holdings Related to Latinx People

Last edited: July 2020

Prepared by: Aaron Aruck

This research guide is intended to help users locate holdings related to Latinx people at the GLBT Historical Society. This research guide is comprehensive and designed to include collections that may only be tangentially related to the historical experience of Latinx LGBTQ people represented in the Society's holdings. The majority of the Society's holdings related to this subject detail the experience of Latin-descent people in the United States, but a number of the collections include documents related to LGBTQ communities in Latin America and their transnational connections with LGBTQ communities in the United States.

It highlights holdings in the following areas:

- Manuscript Collections (Personal papers and organizational records)
- Ephemera
- Oral histories
- Periodicals

Other collections may contain relevant materials. Researchers are encouraged to also conduct their own searches of the catalog and archive finding aids. Please contact the GLBT Historical Society archivist (reference@glbthistory.org) with any questions or comments.

Manuscript Collections

Clark L. Taylor Papers.

Collection Number: 2003-42.

The Clark Taylor papers document three decades of Taylor's professional career as an anthropologist and sexologist. Major topics in the collection include the relationship between LGBT politics, the social sciences, and HIV/AIDS. The bulk of these materials relate to San Francisco, but the small amount of material on Mexico and Latin America is significant. Taylor lived in Mexico for significant periods throughout the 1970s, and earlier parts of the collection include diaries, journals, and scrapbooks that document this largely personal experience. Taylor lived in Mexico while researching and drafting his thesis El Ambiente (Spanish for the gay community), and his field notes include rich interviews with Mexican gay men, magazine articles, safe sex pamphlets, news articles, contact information, "beefcake" photographs, and successive drafts of his thesis. Much of Taylor's scholarship investigated how gay Mexican men identified male homosexuality in culturally specific ways, formed community in bars and clubs in Mexico City, and navigated sex commerce, sex parties, and venereal disease. Taylor went on to teach at the Institute for Advanced Study of Human Sexuality in the 1980s-1990s, and much of his papers during this period focus on his academic career (grant proposals, anthropological conference papers) and his contributions to HIV/AIDS sex education. While most materials in this collection are in English, there are also several Spanish-language sources. <https://oac.cdlib.org/findaid/ark:/13030/c8gb269k/>.

National Task Force on AIDS Prevention Records.

Collection Number: 2000-59.

The National Task Force on AIDS Prevention (NTFAP) records document the establishment, development, and growth of this nationally significant organization. It was originated to serve as an advocacy and outreach group specifically targeting gay men of color, a frequently underserved population. Originally founded as a multi-racial gay organization known as the National Association of Black and White Men Together (NABWMT), this organization promoted HIV/AIDS outreach, policy research, and advocacy for gay men of color after public health studies in the late 1980s confirmed that infection rates were significantly higher for gay men of color than gay white men. This collection contains various records related specifically to Latinx people, including records from the Proyecto Contra SIDA por Vida (Project against AIDS for Life), a non-profit community health organization established in San Francisco's Mission District to reduce the spread of HIV in communities of color. Other relevant records include various Latino-specific research groups in parts of the U.S. (New Orleans) and abroad (Brazil).

Sean Sasser and Pedro Zamora Collection.Collection Number: 2014-04.

This collection contains items from the relationship and commitment/wedding ceremony between AIDS activists Sean Sasser (1968-2013) and Pedro Zamora (1972-1994). Zamora was a Cuban-American activist and HIV/AIDS educator who utilized his role on MTV's The Real World: San Francisco to raise awareness about and complicate popular perceptions of people living with HIV/AIDS. <http://pdf.oac.cdlib.org/pdf/glhs/c81g0t7q.pdf>.

Alan Bérubé Papers.Collection Number: 1995-17.

Of particular note are Bérubé's writings and research files on the Marine Cooks and Stewards Union. These include several unfinished manuscripts and the oral histories he conducted for this project. No on Knight Initiative Campaign Records.Collection Number: 2000-18.

This collection comprises the planning, administrative, and fundraising records created from the "No on Knight" initiative campaign (1999-2000). Photographs, audio-visual materials, and oversized items, such as banners and posters, are also included in this collection. The Knight Initiative or California's Proposition 22 (2000) sought to change the California definition of marriage by adding the phrase "Only a marriage between a man and a woman shall be valid or recognized." That proposal clearly outlawed same-sex marriages. The "No on Knight" initiative campaign was promptly organized by gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender political activists in an attempt to defeat Prop 22. The campaign included specific outreach to the Latino community, as well as statements from important community leaders like Dolores Huerta of the United Farmworkers. http://pdf.oac.cdlib.org/pdf/glhs/glbths_2000_18.pdf.

Alfred (Randy) Subject Files and Sound Recordings.Collection Number: 1991-24.

Randy Alfred was a freelance journalist and radio talk show host in the San Francisco area during the 1970s-1980s. Collection contains research files (clippings, fliers, brochures, correspondence, and notes) and audiotapes--primarily concerning lesbian and gay issues and organizations in San Francisco during the 1970s and 1980s--assembled by Alfred in the course of his hosting of the KSAN public affairs radio show. Relevant interviews include: John Nieto (Mexican-Jewish social worker); Ygnacio Alvarez (Mexican gay activist); Sal Alvarez (United Farm Workers); Carmen Vasquez (Lesbian/Gay Freedom Day Committee); David Macias (Latin American Lesbian and Gay Coalition); and Jesus Barragan (Gay-Latino Alliance). Some of the interviews included discuss 1980s anti-immigration politics and growing nativist hostility. http://pdf.oac.cdlib.org/pdf/glhs/glbths_1991-24.pdf.

<https://www.glbthistory.org/audio-search> (selected digitized recordings are available online)

The collection is primarily in Spanish. <http://pdf.oac.cdlib.org/pdf/glhs/c8086c77.pdf>.

José Sarria Papers.

Collection Number: 1996-01.

The José Sarria Papers include biographical material, correspondence, photographs, ephemera, artifacts and costumes documenting his career as an entertainer and activist in San Francisco over more than half a century. Along with extensive papers related to his early life, military career, performances, and political involvements, this collection contains documents related to the founding and development of the Imperial Court System (a global network of charitable organizations and fundraising ball events), including chapters in Mexico. <https://oac.cdlib.org/findaid/ark:/13030/c81v5h2f/?query=sarria>.

Jorge Cortiñas Papers.

Collection Number: 1998-42.

Between 1989 and 1991 activists in San Francisco spearheaded a campaign to lift all HIV-related restrictions on immigration into the United States. Jorge Cortiñas was a leader in this movement through his involvement in both ACT-UP San Francisco/Golden Gate's Immigration Working Group and in the Coalition for Immigration and Refugee Rights and Services (CIRRES) HIV Task Force. Cortiñas and other activists from these organizations participated in a number of "zap" actions and protests designed to raise awareness of HIV-related immigration policy. In 1991, ACT-UP and CIRRES helped organize a campaign that criticized the choice of location for the 8th International Conference on AIDS, scheduled for Boston in 1992. Activists demanded that the conference be relocated unless United States' discriminator policy on immigration was altered.

Tomas Fabregas Papers.

Collection Number: 1996-44.

Memos, press releases, articles, correspondence, conference information and reports document Tomas Fabregas' AIDS activism on behalf of the ACT UP Immigrant working group and the San Francisco AIDS Foundation. The collection highlights Fabregas' work against immigration and travel restrictions on HIV positive people worldwide. Fabregas campaigned against the Nickles amendment, a piece of U.S. legislation which retained the exclusion of HIV positive immigrants and travelers. This legislation and its enforcement also prohibited the re-entry of HIV-positive individuals with legal status in the U.S., an aspect of the law that Fabregas also contested publicly. Fabregas also campaigned both the Bush senior and Clinton administrations to release the HIV positive Haitian refugees quarantined at Guantanamo Bay.

Note:

As in some of the manuscript and ephemera collections, Latinx people appear or are represented in the GLBT Historical Society archive in publications related to travel, (sex) tourism, and vacationing, particularly in the U.S. Southwest and in Latin America. While these publications are written largely by and for white U.S. travelers, they may offer a helpful source set for understanding how queer travel literature constructed and represented both the sexuality and racial/ethnic identity of people from Latin America and/or of Latin descent.
